The Clōud support team is physically located at the offices of The Center for Rural Development in Somerset, Kentucky — not a half a world away. This state-of-the-art facility ensures your critical data will always be protected in a safe and secure environment including on-site 24/7/365 monitored expert support capabilities without fear of fire, flood, or hardware or power failure.

You're in the business of doing business, and you have better things to do than to worry about whether your in-house server and online systems function as intended.
